

Welcome to Intelligent Content Management

Unlocking the value of content in the AI-first era

AI is reshaping how organizations manage, protect, and extract value from their data at scale to meet increasing customer and employee expectations. At the heart of this new innovation is content: the sales contracts that close deals, the campaign videos that tell a brand's story, and the financial documents that indicate business growth. This gold mine of content makes up 90%¹ of an organization's data, and the amount is growing every day. But it's massively underutilized.

By combining the power of Content + AI, Intelligent Content Management helps organizations in every industry gain strategic insights from content, automate mission-critical workflows with agentic AI, and protect sensitive data at scale. Box is the leading Intelligent Content Management platform that delivers a unified approach to unlocking the value of content in the AI-first era.
